MEMPHIS, Tenn., Saturday, May 23.

Col. Anson Stager, Washington, D. C.:

Official information from below, to Wednesday, states that Gen. Grant has captured Haines' Bluff and the outer works of Vicksburg, a large number of prisoners, and fifty-seven pieces of artillery.

The battle is still raging, with every prospect of capturing the entire force in Vicksburg.

We hold Jackson, Black River Bridge and Haines' Bluff.

A report is making up for Washington.

(Signed,) W. G. FULLER,
Ass't Manager of Telegraph.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT OFFICIAL DETAILS.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, May 23.

The following dispatch has just been received at the War Department:

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Saturday, May 23.

I forward the following, just received from Col. JOHN A. RAWLINS, Assistant Adjutant-General:

HEAD-QR VICKSBURG, Wednesday, May 20, 1863.

The Army of the Tennessee landed at Bruinsburgh on the 30th of April.

On the 1st of May we fought the battle of Port Gibson, and defeated the rebels under Gen. Bowen, whose loss in killed, wounded and prisoners, was at least 1,500, and loss in artillery five pieces.

On the 12th of May, at the battle of Raymond, the rebels were defeated with a loss of 800.

On the 14th of May we defeated Gen. JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON, and captured Jackson with a loss to the enemy of 400, besides immense stores and manufactures, and seventeen pieces of artillery.

On the 16th of May we fought the bloody and decisive battle of Baker's Creek, in which the entire force of Vicksburg, under Gen. Pemberton, was defeated with the loss of 29 pieces of artillery and 4,000 men.

On the 17th of May we defeated the same force at the Big Black River Bridge, with the loss of 2,000 men and seventeen pieces of artillery.

On the 18th of May we invested Vicksburg closely.

To-day Gen. STEELE carried the rifle-pits on the north of the city.

The right of the army rests on the Mississippi above Vicksburg.

JOHN A. RAWLINS,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

POSTSCRIPT.—I learn further that there are from fifteen to twenty thousand men in Vicksburg, and that Pemberton has lost nearly all his field artillery, and that the surrender of Vicksburg dates at about 2 P. M. on the 20th of May.

Gen. Grant has probably captured nearly all.

The Great Battles at Baker's Creek and Black River Bridge.

The following dispatch was received by the War Department yesterday:

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 22—11½ A. M.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

The following dispatch has been received at these headquarters, and is forwarded as requested.

S. A. HURLBUT, Major-General.

HEAD-QR VICKSBURG, May 20, 1863—6 A. M.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Gen. GRANT won a great and decisive victory over the rebels under PEMBERTON, on the Jackson and Vicksburg road at Baker's Creek, on the 16th inst.

PEMBERTON had a most formidable position on the crest of a wooded hill, over which the road passes longitudinally. He had about 25,000 men. The battle began at 11 A. M., and was gained at 4 P. M. Its brunt was borne by HOVEY's division of McCLERNAND's corps, and by LOGAN's and CROCKER's divisions of McPHERSON's corps.

HOVEY attacked the hill, and held the greater part of it till 3 without F. M., when, having lost 1,800 men, he was succeeded by BOWMAN's and HOVEY's brigades of CROCKER's division, by which the conflict was carried to that part of the field. BOWMAN lost 600 men.

LOGAN operated on the right, and cut off the enemy's direct retreat, so that he was compelled to escape by his right flank through the woods. LOGAN lost 400 killed and wounded. We took about 2,000 prisoners.

On the 17th, advancing to the Big Black, we fought PEMBERTON again at the bridge there, and captured 3,000 more prisoners. He fought in rifle-pits, protected by a difficult bayou full of abattis. LAWler's brigade of McCLERNAND's corps charged the rifle-pits magnificently, and took more prisoners than their own numbers. PEMBERTON burned his bridge, and returned to Vicksburg with only three cannon out of sixty that he had taken out.

Building four bridges over the Big Black, Gen. GRANT arrived before the town on the evening of the 18th, and now holds it closely invested. He had opened a line of supplies via Chickasaw Bayou, having cut the town off from Haines' Bluff, which is abandoned by the enemy, and which Gen. GRANT will occupy.

There was sharp fighting through the day yesterday.

STEELE won and holds the upper bluffs, and the enemy's upper water batteries, and gets water from the Mississippi.

BURBIDGE's corps lost yesterday 300 killed and wounded.

McPHERSON, who holds the centre, lost little, as did McCLERNAND, who holds the left.

The gunboats kept the enemy alert during the night, and probably the town will be carried to-day.

There are from 15,000 to 20,000 men in it.

PREVIOUS DISPATCH FROM GEN. HURLBUT.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Thursday, May 21, 1863—11 A. M.

Maj.-Gen. H. W. Halleck, General-in-Chief, Washington:

A citizen has arrived at Lagrange who left Canton on Saturday morning. He reports that Gen. JOS. JOHNSTON was at Calhoun, seventeen miles north of Jackson, with 6,000 men, endeavoring to effect a junction with Gen. PEMBERTON, at Edwards' Station. At Holly Springs he saw a dispatch from Canton, dated the 15th, as follows:

"General GRANT was reinforced and drove the enemy into his intrenchments on the Big Black. General JOHNSTON ordered all his provisions from Canton. The Pearl River Bridge at Jackson and the trestle work at Brandon were burned."

S. A. HURLBUT, Major-General.

REPORTS RECEIVED FROM CAIRO.

CAIRO, Sunday, May 24.

It is reported that Gen. SHERMAN has taken Haines' and Chickasaw Bluffs, with 5,000 prisoners, 100 guns, and ammunition and commissary stores. The prisoners were paroled and sent across the Yazoo.

Another report says these points were evacuated, and SHERMAN took quiet possession.

Gen. GRANT attacked the upper batteries of Vicksburg Sunday, while the gunboats attacked the water batteries.

Tuesday the upper batteries were captured and turned on the water batteries.

The paroled prisoners who were brought across from Vicksburg say our forces have possession of the entire line of outer fortifications, and rebel officers told them man since the capture of Haines's Bluff that there was no chance of escape.

The rebel force is estimated from 20,000 to 30,000. The utmost confusion existed among them. Officers were unable to keep the line of battle.

The Empress—the last boat up—says when she left Wednesday evening the firing had ceased. There is no doubt but that the rebels surrendered.

Gen. BLAIR reached Chickasaw Bluffs on Tuesday, and was sent down for rations. The Federal loss is reported heavy.

Operations of the Rebels under Porter and Farragut.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, May 24.

The Navy Department has received information that Admiral FARRAGUT has been cooperating with Gen. GRANT in the siege of Vicksburg. His fleet was commanding the city and its works (within the bends of the rebels) by night, while GRANT's army assailed it by day, thus giving the rebels within the town and intrenchments not a moment's relaxation from the perils of their situation.

The same department has also received official information that Admiral FARRAGUT's fleet is actively engaged in bombarding Fort Hudson.

REBEL ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF DEFEAT.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday, May 24.

The Richmond Dispatch of May 23 contains the following:

HEADQ'S, Thursday, May 21.

On Saturday's fight we lost thirty pieces of artillery, which were spiked and abandoned.

On Saturday the Federals advanced to take the Big Black bridge, but were repulsed. They crossed higher up, and took us in the rear where the bridge was burned and the works abandoned. Our loss is heavy.

Vicksburg is closely besieged. The enemy is closing in on every side.

The Richmond Enquirer, in addition to the Mobile telegram of May 21, says:

Gen. LOVELL has assumed command of Jackson. No official confirmation has been received here of the crossing of the Big Black by the Federals, or of the destruction of the bridge and abandonment of the works. Private dispatches from Jackson up to the 21st say nothing of these events."

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, SUNDAY, May 24.

The latest published rebel intelligence from Vicksburgh is to effect that Gen. GRANT had crossed the Big Black above the burnt bridge, and had circumvented Vicksburgh, taking thirty rebel guns. The papers speak mournfully of their prospects in the Southwest, and hope that efforts there may prove less disastrous than reported.

ADDITIONAL REBEL ACCOUNTS.

From the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, May 16.

The rumors as to the fall of Jackson, Miss., in circulation yesterday, were so vague and uncertain, that we had well nigh despaired of hearing anything intelligible from that quarter.

It appears that the fight began at an early hour Thursday morning, some eight miles southwest of Jackson, and continued nearly all day, our troops commanded by Johnston and the enemy's by Grant. We were finally driven back to Jackson, and fought there through the streets until overpowered by greatly superior numbers, and were compelled to evacuate the city, the enemy's forces amounting to about 20,000 or 30,000, and our own only to about 8,000. Gen. JOHNSTON then retreated on Canton, twenty-four miles due north of Jackson, situated on the wagon road connecting thence by Yalden to the road running due east to the Yazoo River, and leading directly to Vicksburgh, some seventy miles from Jackson by this route.

When heard from yesterday morning, the enemy's cavalry were at Brandon, on the Southern Road, twenty odd miles this side of Jackson, near which point we had a force to protect the road. This fact is official, and may be relied on.

Gen. JOHNSTON had arrived at Jackson 11 A. M. Wednesday, and the fight commencing so early the next morning, left him no time to reorganize and concentrate the forces, and he no doubt made a desperate resistance under great disadvantages. It is stated that some days before leaving Tennessee Gen. Johnston sent Gen. Pemberton an order to somewhat change his plans which was forthwith or while by the latter as very improper, if not due to an unsuccessful a commander, wherupon Gen. Johnston received an order at the last moment on Saturday to go to Mississippi and take command of the army. He left the same day, and arrived in unprecedented time, as before stated, Wednesday morning. We are glad to learn that his complacent predecessor had so far anticipated the evacuation as to have the most important supplies and the archives and other utilities of value removed. Our army has four months provisions at Vicksburgh. We have ample forces in communication in Mississippi, under the masterly lead of JOHNSTON, to meet and repel the invaders; but it may require some little time to put our forces in the proper position.

GEN. JOS JOHNSTON IN FULL COMMAND OF THE REBEL FORCES AROUND VICKSBURGH.

From the Richmond Enquirer, May 22.

The "retreat towards Vicksburgh" of Gen. GRANT's army, mentioned in a late dispatch, proves to have been an advance of the Federals upon Vicksburgh. They have been met by Gen. PEMBERTON, near the eastern bank of the Big Black River.

Vicksburgh, therefore, may now be said to be besieged both by land and water; and if some heavy combination be not made between the forces under PEMBERTON and JOHNSTON the heavy city may possibly fall. Gen. JOHNSTON is in the supreme command in that department.

THE FALL OF VICKSBURGH.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, May 24.

At 11 A. M. to-day, the President received the following telegraphic announcement that Vicksburgh is ours:

"CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sunday, May 24.

A dispatch from Mr. FULLER, the manager of the telegraph at Memphis, dated late in the night, says the Stars and Stripes float over Vicksburgh, and the victory is complete. I have held this message, hoping to get the confirmation, but the line has been interrupted, and I now give it to you as it reached me. I think the wires will be all right soon."

THE NEWS FULLY CREDITED.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, May 24.

Up to 10 P. M. no further news from Vicksburgh had been received, since the dispatch via Cleveland, announcing the fall of the city. The news is fully credited, however, and there is general rejoicing over the practical reopening of the Mississippi.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, May 24.

Up to 10 o'clock to-night the President had received no further intelligence, excepting a telegram from Memphis, dated 6:30 this afternoon, saying nothing later yet than the morning report of the capture of Vicksburgh.

From the facts already received, no doubt seems to be entertained in any quarter of the fall of Vicksburgh. The official confirmation, however, is awaited with anxiety. There was rejoicing throughout the city to-day.

The Union Meeting.

LETTER FROM HON. BEVERDY JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, May 21, 1863.

GENTLEMEN: It will be out of my power to be one of the mass assemblage of loyal citizens to meet in Union, on the 27th inst., to which you have done me the favor to invite me.

The resolutions to be submitted on the occasion I have not received, but whatever they may be in other respects, and however I may possibly differ in some of them, there is one sentiment with which I am sure they will coincide, to wit, that it will be time enough for the friends of the Union, and a Government worth the name, to preserve it at every sacrifice, during our life. To suffer a nation like ours to die, a Government, never felt but in the protection and blessings which it has conferred, to fall into ruin under the blows of the rebels, would be the most terrible calamity that could befall us, and would be a great violation of imperative duty on the present living.

As long as we revere the memory of the great and good men of the past—as long as we regard the price paid for every thing that ennobles the nation as our hearts beat with patriotic blood—we will, we must, stand by the starred and striped banner, as our only shield and rescuer from the blows of the traitorous parricides. To do this, I consider supported the President in absolutely pardoning. His only counsel has been committed, I think, some damaging errors, but his real purpose cannot be other than that patriotic, for course detecting his countenance as the least Senator of Illinois, without other ambition than to secure an honest name, in which he fully succeeded, and upon his return to the same comparatively humble sphere, it is impossible that he can designedly be faithless to duty. Being human, he erred; being honest, never intentionally; and being patriotic, the great object of his heart is the restoration of the Union, and to that great end he is, I doubt not, unselfishly and entirely devoting himself. In thinking, I shall at all times give him a hearty support, and make common cause with all who, to save the Government, rally around its head, and, I rejoice to believe that such safety is near at hand.

The warlike resources of which he is rallying, the Southern masses are proving the hollowness of the throw cause. 000,1108 issues 000,8008 in [illegible] 000,8008 [illegible] to subject not of solid [illegible] rebellion and begin to despond. This is evidenced in various ways that challenge conviction. One of the most striking is a recent editorial in the organ of the failing Chief, in the very Capital of his pretended Government. Every line of it is full of despair. And well may they so feel. Our armies are gathering around their strongholds. The Mississippi, the nation's river, with all its immense tributaries, is soon to be restored to the undisturbed possession of their rightful owner, and again to gladden our whole people with the inestimable wealth of the country washed by them. This effected, the days of the traitors will be few in number, and those be made the fewer, should the Grand Army of the Potomac, as it certainly may, under skillful command, accomplish its destiny—the destruction of its army adversary and the capture of Richmond.

That the proposed meeting will assist in attaining these ends, is the voice of confidence, praise and gratitude, which it will speak to the army and navy, will be appreciated by all who value constitutional freedom, and consider as every reflecting man must, treacherous ambition seeking by force its own ends, the greatest crime that can be committed against an enobled man. With great regard,

Your obdt. Serv't,

BEVERDY JOHNSON.

Messrs. JAMES WADSWORTH, GEORGE OPDYKE, HENRY J. RAYMOND, and others, Committee, New-York.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, May 24.

CULTIVATING ABANDONED FARMS.

The War Department has issued an order requiring all the abandoned rebel farms within Gen. BURNSIDE'S Department to be put under cultivation by the contrabands.

CAPTURE OF CONFEDERATE MONEY.

Gen. PLEASANTON's forces on Saturday captured near Dumfries, $16,000 in Confederate money, on its way South.

APPOINTMENT.

Judge TAYLOR, of Iowa, has been appointed Fourth Auditor of the Treasury, vice BERRIAN, resigned.

THE PRESIDENT AT THE HOSPITALS.

The President, to-day, visited several hospitals here, meeting with an enthusiastic reception from the sick and wounded inmates. Passing through the different wards, each soldier received a friendly shake of his hand, and words of sympathy and encouragement.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, May 24.

DEPORTATION OF BLACKS.

Only one contract has been made and carried out by the Government for the transportation of free persons of color beyond the limits of the United States, and this was at the rate of $50 each for 500 of them in families, to the Island of Avash, in St. Domingo. Various applications have been made for such supplies, to be employed as laborers in the West India Islands, but the Government declines to make any more such contracts for the present under the authority vested in the President.

THE CURRENCY BUREAU.

The Comptroller of the Currency has left Washington for Indiana to resign the Presidency of the State Bank. The Bureau is making arrangements for putting the new law into operation, and has promulgated the following for the benefit of all concerned.

Before circulating notes will be delivered to any bank organization under the National General Banking law, the Comptroller must have satisfactory evidence by the report of an examiner or otherwise.

First—That the bank is located in some city, town or village which is easily accessible, and not in some out-of-the-way, inaccessible place, selected for the purpose of making the return of its notes difficult or expensive.

Second—That the bank is provided with a suitable banking room or banking rooms, unconnected with any other business, and also with a vault or safe, for the safe-keeping of its funds.

Third—That the bank has procured such books as may be required for the transaction of a regular banking business, one of such books to be a record or minute book, in which shall have been recorded its articles of association, a copies of which shall have been forwarded to this Department, and in which the proceedings of the Board of Directors shall be entered and preserved.

Fourth—That the bank shall have adopted by-laws for the management of its business, approved by the Comptroller.

Fifth—That the amount of capital stock required to be paid in has been so paid, and that the same remains in the bank in cash or with some safe depository, subject to sight check, or has been invested in the United States bonds, or in some other satisfactory manner.

Sixth—That the bank has in its employment competent officers for the transaction of its business, that its directors are men of fair standing, and that the bank has been organized to carry on legitimate banking.

The Comptroller will afford every aid and encouragement in his power to banks organized for the purpose of carrying into effect the spirit and intention of the law, but will discountenance and prevent, as far as practicable, all attempts to pervert the law from its proper object, by establishing banks upon fictitious capital, which by their inability to meet promptly their engagements, may, at any time, bring the system into disrepute.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Capture of a Rebel Lieutenant-Colonel—The Enemy Digging Again.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY POTOMAC, Sunday, May 24.

The Lieutenant-Colonel commanding the Fifteenth Virginia cavalry, was brought into camp today by a detachment of our cavalry. He was captured east of the Rappahannock, whither he had come, as he says, to be present at the funeral of his child.

Our river pickets report that the enemy were busy in digging last night on the bank opposite where the lower bridge were thrown over previous to the late crossing; also, that the enemy's pickets have been strengthened on the river.

Distinguished Visitors—A Presentation to Gen. Burnes, &c.

SOUTHERN'S STATION VA., Friday, May 22, 1863.

The army, or rather headquarters, was honored by the visit of more distinguished gentlemen yesterday—Secretary CHASE, and Senator ANTHONY of Rhode Island. They arrived by special boat yesterday morning, spent the day with Gen. HOOKER, and departed again to the evening—coming and going in the brief, business-like manner which characterizes these two business men.

One of those occasions which mark the passage of these dull days took place yesterday afternoon in the First brigade, of the First division, of the Sixth army corps. It was nothing less than the presentation to Brig.-Gen. BURNS, commanding the brigade, of a magnificent horse, equipments, sword, sash, belt and a full suit of uniform, including hat and gloves. These splendid gifts came from the officers of his command, his staff, and the field, staff and line of the Eighteenth Massachusetts, Twenty-second Massachusetts, Fifth Michigan, One Hundred and Eighteenth Pennsylvania, Second Maine, Thirteenth New-York, Twenty-fifth New-York and the New-York sharpshooters formed from the three-years' recruits of returning regiments. The Second Maine and Thirteenth New-York had gone home, but they were present in spirit, having done their part in originating the gifts.

The presentation took place at Gen. BURNS' headquarters, which were elegantly adorned by festoons and hedges of evergreens. While the interwoven evergreens, leafy were decorated by cedar wreaths and numerous sheets of the national colors, appropriately hung and disposed. The hour for the ceremonies was set at 4 o'clock, and by 3 some three hundred invited guests had arrived, including Gens. MEAGHER and BURNS. Ample refreshments, cool and pleasant, were dispensed under a large canvas canopy to the right of the main entrance, while to the left were three long tables, laden with the substantials of a beautiful cold collation.

At about 4 o'clock, the assemblage, which by this time had grown very large and brilliant, was called to order, and the General and Staff taking positions at the table on which lay the gifts (the horse being brought into the area,) Lieut.-Col. GWYN, of the One hundred and Eighteenth Pennsylvania, advanced and said:—

GEN. BURNS: The officers of the First brigade, so long and ably commanded by you, have done me the honor of selecting me to present you, in their name, with this horse and sword. Language and imagination falter in any effort of mine to do justice to this occasion, or to express a tithe of their sincere and ardent attachment for you, and their confidence in you as their commander. With them you have shared the toilsome march, the cheerless bivouac, and the many privations incident to the campaign; you continue on the fields of Shenandoah, Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville, have afforded us noble examples of heroic courage, deserved real and exalted patriotism, while your skillful management on the field, and your just and impartial administration in the camp, have inspired us with profound respect and confidence. As a slight testimonial of these sentiments, I present, in behalf of the officers of your command, I have the honor to present these tokens. Accept this sword; may it serve to protect you, our country, and its righteous cause; may it remain unsheathed and untarnished while the country holds your services, liberty's defender, or rebellion and tyranny an opponent. And when the happy hour comes, as soon it must come, when peace and union again prevail, may this serve as a grand memento of your gallant services, and may you transmit it to your children, to remind them of the patriot's duties, trials, triumphs and rewards.

At the close of this speech there was the most enthusiastic applause.

Gen. BURNS, in reply, made a speech of some length, replete with fine expressions, graceful rhetoric, loyal sentiments and exceedingly sound common sense. I regret that my limited time and your crowded space will not permit it to be reproduced here in full. It was received with great favor, and contained many bold and pregnant expressions. Always a Democrat, it was gratifying to hear such expressions of loyalty, resolution, determination and hopefulness. Gen. BURNS will do his country double service by animating his command with such sentiments. They are grandly significant of the noble, self-sacrificing, patient, yet resolute spirit of the great army of the Potomac. At the conclusion, the company gathered round the tables, and fell to discussing the substantials in a very vigorous manner. The collation was in most excellent taste. Never have I seen a greater degree of appropriateness in such a matter. Everything in the shape of meats, relishes and wines was in exquisite taste, and reflected great credit upon those having its management, prominent among whom were Gen. BURNS' able and courteous Staff.

The gifts are of the most elegant character. The horse is a splendid brown animal from Philadelphia. The equipments, sword and uniform are all from the firm of HOSEBANNE BROWNING, of Philadelphia.

May such occasions increase, and may the shadows of such spirits as moved in this never grow less.

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Mr. Beecher's Farewell Sermon and a Review of His Sixteen Years' Labor.

The congregation over which, at Plymouth Church, Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER presides, and to which he has ministered during the past sixteen years, have tendered their pastor a four months' leave of absence, that with well-filled purse he may revisit the Eastern Hemisphere and obtain rest and reinvigoration.

Yesterday was the last Sabbath prior to his departure, and at both morning and evening service the house was thronged to its very utmost capacity. In the morning, after a collection of $1,000 had been raised for the benefit of the sick and wounded soldiers, Mr. BEECHER preached a sermon illustrating the peculiarity of his consistent teaching in regard to doctrinal identity as distinguished from doctrinal harmony. In other words, showing that, while it is possible, and greatly to be desired, that all sects and denominations should acknowledge "one Lord," and live harmoniously together under the great law of love, it is an absolute terrestrial impossibility, not to say absurdity, to hope ever for an identity of doctrine, of faith, or of denominational cognomen.

The services in the evening were, however, of the more interesting and solemn nature. Long before the ringing of the first bell every seat in the spacious house was filled, every inch of available standing room was occupied, and every avenue in, to and about the church was crowded by the friends and colaborers of the faithful pastor.

The opening services were peculiarly touching, and it was evident that the sympathetic mind which in this church so manifestly binds the elder and the younger brethren in closest bonds of love, was straining with the tension of tenderest emotion.

Mr. BEECHER spoke from the passage found in Acts xx. 18-27.

THE SERMON.

I have not selected these words with any immodest or presumptuous intent of drawing a parallel between my Apostle's fidelity and my own. Instead of feeling that I can use these words as the Apostle Paul did, they rather fill me with sorrow and humiliation. I am conscious of great deal more of my deficiencies than of my fidelities among you. I am conscious of very, very great fidelity, and that in intention. I have not swerved in my intentions; but the performances have been so imperfect and so weak that they fill me, in the presence of such a glorious and truthful testimony as this, almost with fear—certainly with regret. But the public farewell of a minister to his flock suggests the subject natural to the occasion, before my departure to Europe and four months' absence, of my last regular sermon in a ministry of sixteen years. For I hold in my hands a "call" to this church signed within these weeks, now, of sixteen years ago; and should my life be spared, to return in October, that month will be the month, sixteen years ago, in which I undertook the ministry of the gospel in your midst. This call is signed by six or seven, but a part of whom yet remain with us. The names are—John T. Howard, Henry C. Bowen, Charles J. Bowland, Silas Payne, Daniel Burgess, Henry A. Chittenden, J. Wilson Greene.

I assumed the charge in October, though the call was made out on the 14th of June. Sixteen years! Years most fruitful! Seldom are such years known as God has made the past sixteen in the life of every one of us. It is impossible, under our circumstances, that there should be any confidential family and church conference between us. In speaking in my own Church, I am obliged, always, as it were, to speak before the whole great community; and yet it is the right of a pastor, occasionally, to speak to his own church as a father to his own family. And if ever such an occasion offered, it comes to me that this is one. I beg of you, therefore, not to regard it as an indelicacy if, to-night, I mingle much of my own personal history, and many of my own private feelings, with the remarks which I shall make.

When I came among you, I came from a field of labor in the West with great reluctance, and with yearning of heart toward it. The strength of my love for the West has not suffered any abatement. I love the memory of the past, and the ties that bound me to the place and the people where I formerly was. The memory is as strong, I think, as weight as ever they were; and my memory is full of tears. For the State that was my earliest home in the ministry, I have still the unfeigned enthusiasm. Time has not obliterated the dear, sacrificed the memory of my past labors, nor of my brethren in those labors, and I never think of that field to this day without regret, although I have never for a moment doubted the wisdom that I acted right in leaving it, and coming to serve you in the Gospel ministry here.

There is always a period of trial to a young man who undertakes to be pastor only—and I take it that all young men do this. It is the first impulse of every young man to enter upon a career with generosity and high-mindedness. And in the ministry every young man begins his career with a zealous intention to do good work. Their first strokes, their fidelity, their boldness, and their fearlessness usually bring praise; but then, afterward, comes the test. If in the beginning men are bent in behalf of those who surround them, as against others that are outside, their boldness is praised; but in the progress of time it is necessary for men to be bold against their friends. Men having gathered around them a [illegible] and have gathered become old friends, [illegible] to [illegible] on [illegible] those who are their sponsors and followers—their friends; having gained some degree of influence, the pernicious counsel begins to be whispered, "You must not ruin your friend's confidence and your own influence by too profuse a use of your liberty. You must take care of your influence." Now, when a man sets himself to take care of truth, he accumulates influence; but the moment a man abandons truth to take care of his influence, he loses both the truth and the influence. It is easy for a young man to stand independent against enemies; but it is hard every young man that can bear the test of independence against friends.

When I came into your midst, I had had some experience already, and I was better able to resist any seductions in that direction then I otherwise would have been; but I must not forget to say that this Church has never failed to uphold my hands in the main, and that instead of attempting to withdraw me from my path, for the most part the people of my charge have themselves been just as jealous of the liberty of the pulpit as I myself have been. I speak it to your praise. And although there have been times in which you have differed from me, and have had occasion, doubtless, to differ from me, although you have seen, at times, that my earnestness and zeal have gone over even into harshness; although, perhaps, not being aware of the things which excited me, you have felt that I have been often extravagant in the assertion of my rights, and of the truth that was committed to me, yet you have been sensible enough to reserve your own opinions to yourselves, and let me alone to work my own way out. And I say that few ministers have had as much occasion to be thankful to their people for strength ministered to them in the right direction, and for the very little criticism with which they vexed them, as I have had. I have been surrounded by an affectionate and loving people, and they have shown their affection, not so much by attempting to pamper or flatter me, or to restrain my ministerial usefulness, as by attempting to uphold me in my bolder and nobler tendencies.

The times required both that you should be firm, and that I should be. This strong determination that I felt, not to be vanquished, not to be snuffed out, not to be silenced, not to be made a smart and smooth talker of inanities and common-place; this determination to speak what I thought so that men should understand what I said and what I meant, happened in times that required just such a development. For my ministry began in your midst at a critical period in our history; and the first ten or fifteen years of it—that is, the whole of it—has been passed under circumstances which combined to intimidate men that had position and influence. For years, the whole commercial power of New-York, not only, but of all the great cities of our land, and the whole political combination of both parties, and also a majority of the minor sections of the churches, combined either to silence the pulpit, or to make it bear witness on the wrong side. Never was there such a pressure on a Christian pulpit as, from 1850 to 1860, was brought to bear upon the pulpits of our land.

Among the earliest, the deepest, and the strongest purposes of my ministry among you, was the determination that it should be a ministry of Christ. Nothing could be further from my heart than to make this pulpit the clustering point of a number of reforms. I never would have consented to serve in a church that was merely what is called a reformatory church. I felt in my soul that all power in moral reforms must spring from a yet deeper power; and for that I struck; and I remember how, in the very beginning, night and day, without varying, through all the early months of my ministry here, I had but one feeling—to preach Christ for the awakening of men, and for their conversion, because I felt that the whole history of the Church would be very much determined by the first years of its life. And my desire was that this should be a revival Church—a church in which the Gospel should be preached primarily and mainly for the re-creation of man's moral nature, for the bringing of Christ as a living power upon the living souls of men. My profound conviction of the efficiency of man without God was such that it seemed to me like groaning in the great Sahara, to attempt to make moral reformations in a church which was not profoundly impressed with the great spiritual truths of Christ Jesus. The darkness of man, so great, so pervading, and so universal as to make it necessary that he should be born again—this was the substantial, practical view that I had of human nature; and I have never had any occasion to change it. I have no doubt that there are many in this land who would think it an extraordinary thing to hear it said that the key-note of my ministry among you had been the evangelization of the soul, or the awakening of men from their stupidness, and their conversion to the Lord Jesus Christ. It has been, if you had taken that out from my thoughts and feelings you would have taken away the very central principle of my ministry; and you that have dwelt here and labored from the first—it will not surprise you; you will bear witness to the truth of what I say. That has been the undertone of my life. I have felt profoundly the barrenness of man without God, and profoundly the fruitfulness of man with Christ—ever in me the hope of glory. This has been the first, and this the radical truth. By far the largest number of my sermons, by far the most of my preaching, has been aimed at the conviction and the conversion of men. I know that there is a different popular impression; I know that it is an incorrect impression.

Not to have rejected and dared for Jesus Christ would have been to forfeit all claim to discipleship. Oh! that I could have worked harder, done nobler things, suffered more. When I think what the apostles bore, that they had the cross to bear, my cross has been so covered with flowers that I think I have borne the garden rather than the cross—the garden in which the Saviour was. I do not believe that that which I have endeavored to practice among you on the subject of human rights I shall forget when I am abroad. I will not even ask you to pray that I may be faithful to them, for I know I shall be. If you pray that God will spare my life, you include all that is needful, for in bone and nerve and muscle and blood, in body and in soul, for time and for eternity, I am wedded to the one thing—of preaching Christ in such a way that men shall be made freemen in Christ Jesus. This I ask: your love, your confidence, your remembrance, your prayers, that I may be kept from harm; and that, when I return again to you, you may be one half as glad to see my face, and hear my voice, as I shall to look upon the fairest thing that my eye ever beheld in this world—the upturned faces of this loving and glorious congregation. If I have aided you in any respect, you have made me, and I go, bearing the name of this Church as a precious memento, an honor and a glory. Ye are my joy and my crown of rejoicing as long as I live. May God take care of you and protect you, and this faithful witness I am about upon any, let it be that death that will enable me to behold you in Heaven rejoicing. But may we return together to more prayer, to more zeal, to more labor of love, and to greater and more abounding truths. And you, brethren, that greeted my first coming, and that were earliest by my side, so many of you as remain, already becoming patriarchs, I look back upon your young friendship and fidelity in right, with unmingled thankfulness. To you that came in under my ministry, and have almost been reared by it—to you I give my heartiest love; to you I give my blessing, and to all of you my best wishes, and, that I may express it in a single word, they Christ be formed in you the hope of glory. Amen and amen.

Important Military Arrest.

Some days since, Provost-Marshal-General NUGENT received information of a conspiracy which was being inaugurated in the Sprague Light Cavalry, and giving the matter careful attention, he procured sufficient evidence to convict the guilty parties, who were at once arrested, and are now in a fair way to receive merited punishment. It appears that Capt. JOHN ARMSTRONG, of the above mentioned regiment, devised the scheme of forming a band of guerrillas out of the above command, who were to be ready on their arrival at camp to stealthily, and commence a career of robbery and bloodshed indiscriminately on friend or foe. The Captain's principal confederate was Sergeant BUCKLIN, who was stationed at the camp at Plattsburgh, N. Y. A letter was received, written by Capt. ARMSTRONG, in which was written a cipher alphabet, with the key of explanation, informing the Sergeant that thereafter all communications must be in this cypher. Capt. A. was at once invested and sent to Fort Lafayette, at which quarters his Sergeant is about to join him. As the men who joined the organization claim they did so for the purpose of exposing it, they are, at present, only detained under arrest in camp.

IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

The Siege of Puebla Raised by the French.

The Impossibility of Taking the Place Admitted.

Reinforcements and Heavier Guns Wanted.

The French Forces Falling Back to Orizaba.

Capture of a Convoy with $1,000,000 by the Guerrillas.

The steamship Roanoke, from Havana on the 19th inst., arrived at this port yesterday, bringing news that the French have been obliged to raise the siege of Puebla—French accounts say on account of the impossibility of taking the place without reinforcements and heavier guns; while the English and Mexican accounts report the defeat of the French, and their retreat toward and probably to Orizaba.

OUR HAVANA CORRESPONDENCE.

News from Mexico by the French and English Steamers.

HAVANA, Tuesday, May 19, 1863.

The French transport steamer L'Eure arrived here the day before yesterday, from Vera Cruz, but brings no news. The only item of intelligence, if it is to be believed, is the following, as given in the Diario de la Marina of to-day:

"The French transport steamer-of-war L'Eure arrived in our port, on Saturday night, from Vera Cruz, which she left on the 11th inst. At that period the news from Puebla reached only up to the 27th of April. According to information which we have received, it appears that at the above named date nothing had occurred at the theatre of war. For some days past the operations against Puebla had been suspended, on account of the impossibility of penetrating into the place by the means until then employed, and until the besiegers could make use of the 32-inch of heavy calibre that were expected from Vera Cruz. Two of these pieces were then two days' distance from Puebla, and others were on the way, having been taken out of the ships-of-war.

"The impossibility that the French troops found to penetrate into Puebla is attributed to the immense thickness of the intrenchments, the narrowness of the streets, and, to the circumstance that the houses which form the first line of defenses are fenced filled with earth. Against these means of defence it appears that the rifled 12-pound cannon used by the French army are not sufficient.

"The positions of the French were on the 27th of April the same as at the beginning of the month, as was likewise that of Comonfort. Since the suspension of attacking the city, there had only occurred some slight skirmishes with a party of troops who had sallied out. It is also said that on the 24th a large convoy of flour, which the Mexicans attempted to introduce into Puebla, was intercepted, and that provisions were abundant in the French army.

"Such is the news that we have been able to collect, and we give it to the public for what it is worth. Especially it is rather negative than affirmative, being limited to the fact that, on the 11th of this month, it was only known at Vera Cruz that, up to the 27th of April, affairs continued at Puebla about the same as at the beginning of operations.

"Besides the arrival of the English mail steamer there have only come from Vera Cruz the transport Finisterre, which left our port in a hurry without any communication with the shore, and the Eure, which entered the day before yesterday. It is evident that the reports which have been in circulation lately relative to grave occurrences at the theatre of war, were mere conjectures, more or less well founded, but destitute of authority; on that account we have not thought fit to publish them.

"The Eure will return shortly to Vera Cruz, taking a million of dollars in cash, the proceeds of bills on the French Treasury which have been negotiated in this city."

This is all the news given by the above-named Havana newspaper, but I was shown a letter addressed to a resident of this city, from a friend in Mexico, in which mention is made that the French had withdrawn to a distance of sixteen miles from Puebla—in what direction is not stated, but doubtless to command the road to Orizaba.

Everybody here considers it a certain thing that the French have been defeated, and the result verifies the assertion which I made in a former letter on the first approach of the French before Puebla, that it would prove to them a second Saragossa. So it has evidently turned out; and, as a singular coincidence, Puebla itself has within the last year been renamed with the appellation of Saragossa—or, as the Mexicans write it, Zaragoza, in honor of their late commander-in-chief, Gen. Zaragoza. It will be easily understood by any one acquainted with a Spanish city that, from their massive style of building, even private houses could be easily changed into a range of fortresses, so that, with the erection of barricades in the streets, the French have had their progress disputed inch by inch, and ultimately, as is now clearly evident, have been obliged to withdraw outside the city to avoid a universal slaughter. In the former French accounts they boasted that their troops had penetrated the city as far as the place d'arme, but now we are, even by their own admission, that they have been driven out of the city.

LIARA.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

HAVANA, Tuesday, May 19.

On the 18th the French steamer-of-war L'Eure arrived from Vera Cruz, which port she left on the 11th. She reports that no news had been received there from the army later than the 27th ult.; that the siege of Puebla has been raised or suspended till the arrival of reinforcements and heavier guns, as it had been impossible to penetrate the City of Puebla with the artillery they had, it being of only twelve-pound caliber, though rifled. The guns from the vessels-of-war now in port have been sent ashore, and are to go to Puebla; two guns had arrived within two days' journey, and others were on the road. The impossibility of entering Puebla consisted in the barricades, 18 feet thick, of earth and stones, and in the fact that the Mexicans had filled the houses of the first line of parapets with earth. The Mexicans again in occupy the Fort of San Xavier, which they are repairing.

The Eure reports that "light skirmishes took place daily with parties who came out to attack from the city; that on the 24th a large convoy of meal was captured by the French, which the Mexicans were trying to introduce into the city.

A French officer has passed through this port in the mail steamer Clyde, en route for France, whence he is to send out a heavy siege train, and a Vera Cruz letter says nothing will be done till these guns arrive, and until reinforcements reach Orizaba, which cannot be earlier than the first part of October. We are very anxious to get the Mexican accounts, as we place no reliance in those received through French sources.

The English frigate Imperieuse brought the news that the French had been defeated and obliged to retire sixteen miles toward Orizaba, to which place Gen. Forey and Staff had gone. A letter from a person in high standing in Vera Cruz, to one of the same category here, says: "The French have been obliged to raise the siege and retreat nine miles. I understand they will go into quarters at Orizaba, and await reinforcements and heavy guns from France."

The convoy I wrote you of as carrying $1,000,000 from Vera Cruz, I am informed was attacked by the guerrillas, and the money stolen. I gave you an account of the counter guerrillas, who were three times driven back in their attempt to dislodge these guerrillas, who it was supposed would attack the convoy. This I am told is the reason that the transport L'Eure is to return to Vera Cruz with $1,000,000, which has been probably here by the sale of drafts on the French Government.

YUCATAN.

Official dispatches published by INDEPEN. state that the rebels MAYAPAN and BECANCHE have been defeated, and that the towns of Bacalar, Valladolid and Izamal are again in the hands of the Government.

CAMPECHE.

Gen. Marin abandoned the town of Palizada, which was occupied on the 25th by the Mexican troops.

VENEZUELA.

The conference I wrote you of between the foreign Ministers and the leader of the Federacion, GUSMAN BLANCO, took place on the 23d ult., and it was accorded that a truce should be given to hostilities for the formation of a new Government that should satisfy the public generally—the cessation of the dictatorship and the resignation of Gen. PAEZ, and of ROJAS, his Secretary.

HAYTI.

We hear of a rebellion against President GEFFRARD, who has granted various concessions to foreigners (whites,) not agreeable to portions of the inhabitants, (blacks,) but we are informed the rebellion has been "suffocated."

THE BLOCKADE RUNNERS, ETC.

The Spanish steamer Soler, or rather the rebel steamer under Spanish colors, started to break the blockade on the 15th, but burst one of her boilers, killing two men, and mortally scalding another, who died the next day at the charity hospital. She was towed into port again. This steamer and the little Union furnish the only cases, I believe, where the Spanish flag has been used to cover illicit traffic with the rebels.

The American schooner Lorena, Capt. WADE, brought in the Captain and crew of the English ship Wentworth, with a cargo of sugar and rum. The Wentworth left Jamaica for London, got ashore on the 5th on Salt Key Bank, was got off and abandoned on the 9th, with nine feet of water in her hold. Capt. Wade gives publicity to return his thanks to Capt. WADE for having picked him and his crew up in their boats, and for his kindness to them till their arrival in this port.

MEXICAN NEWS VIA SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, May 19.

The steamer Golden Age brings advices from the City of Mexico to the 21 of May, and from Puebla to the 20th of April.

Gen. OZEGA's dispatches to Gen. COMONFORT state that on the night of the 24th of April the French exploded a mine on the block called "Stentmo," occupied by Mexican troops.

A number of the Mexicans were buried in the ruins, but the balance resisted the French all night, fighting desperately.

On the morning of the 25th both parties were reinforced and continued the fight with the greatest determination and ferocity, the Mexicans, at its close, holding their original position.

During the contest the French exploded another mine in the Santa Jesus, and another fight ensued here, lasting seven hours, the Mexicans remaining masters of the field and capturing one hundred and thirty prisoners from the First regiment of French Zouaves.

The French left four hundred dead on the field.

Since these fights the French have kept up the bombardment of the city, though less vigorously than before.

On the 1st of May President JUAREZ left the city of Mexico for Gen. COMONFORT's camp, near Puebla, for the purpose of urging offensive operations against the French.

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, May 20.

Gen. OZEGA's dispatches to Gen. COMONFORT, dated Puebla, April 25, thus sums up the military situation during the last month and a half:

"The French have made eight assaults, succeeding only in two. We have lost nothing save our abandoned forts, and our line of defenses. For the last thirty-one days we have not lost a foot of ground. The French continue to throw their bombs into the city, and are cutting ditches and covered ways for an attack on Santa Maria."

MEXICAN NEWS VIA PANAMA.

PANAMA, Saturday, May 16.

The Constitution, from San Francisco, got in this morning, at 6 o'clock. She brings important news from Mexico. The dates from Puebla are to the 30th of April. The French were driven out of Puebla at the point of the bayonet. The Mexicans fought them for seven hours with swords and bayonets, and the loss on both sides is very heavy. It is said the French have lost 6,000. JUAREZ had come down to Puebla and held a council of war as to the propriety of becoming the offensive instead of the defensive party. It is thought that another attack will not be made on Puebla by the French with their present force, and it is likely they will return to the seaboard.

The rainy season has set in. The roads to Vera Cruz are bad, and infested with guerrillas, and the yellow fever may be soon looked for.

UNITED STATES OF COLOMBIA.

No News from the Interior—The New State Constitution for Panama.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Saturday, May 16, 1863.

The British mail steamer Guayaquil, from Guayaquil and intermediate ports, arrived here on the 11th inst. She brought thirteen passengers and the following freight:

For Southampton—5 pkgs. hide; Liverpool—[illegible] bags cocoa, 60 ounce crucibs, 127 pkgs. India-rubber; New-York—237 bags cocoa, 7 pkgs. India-rubber; Panta Arenas—1 serons hide; Panama—1,457 bags cocoa, 11 serons hide, 62 pkgs. merchandise, 4 pkgs. hide, 126 serons bark and tobacco.

It was expected that this steamer would bring later news from the interior, by way of Buenaventura, but no mails had reached that place of as late date as the advices from Cartagena, sent to you by last mail. The Government troops expected by the Guayaquil did not arrive; over one-half of the force having deserted while on the way from the interior to Buenaventura. It is somewhat questionable now whether the remainder of the force will be brought to Panama.

There is nothing of special interest to write by this mail. The "Assembles" of Panama is still in session, and the new State Constitution has been under debate for the greater part of the term, so far. Its provisions meet with general approval outside of the legislative halls; but a very strong and somewhat bitter opposition to its more liberal features is manifested by a faction of the members of the "Assembles." It has, however, reached its second reading, and no doubt is felt about the final passage of the instrument. Beyond debating the Constitution, there has been nothing done by this body that is of any importance. Locally, all is quiet.

The Panama Railroad Company's steamer Colombia left on the 15th inst. for San José and intermediate ports.

The Boston and Philadelphia Prize Courts.

It is claimed that the Prize Courts in Boston, in disposing of the Gladiator prize and cargo, did it with unparalleled quickness, and the Prize Court of this district is asked to follow the example there set. The truth is, the Prize Court here disposed of the steamer Princess Royal in a shorter time than was consumed in the Boston Prize Court over the Gladiator and cargo. The Princess Royal was reported to the Court on the 9th of February, and the libel was filed on the same day. On the 11th of February an order for the survey and appraisement of the vessel and cargo was made, and on the 17th appraisement of the vessel was returned. The appraisement of the cargo was returned on the 24th of February, and on the 6th of March the condemnation of the vessel and cargo took place, and on the same day, less than one month from the time of the arrival of the vessel, the steamer was transferred to the Government for $115,000. As the cargo was a very valuable one, there were three sales, and the whole was closed up by the 16th of May, the whole amount realized being $244,000. In the Boston case referred to, thirty-eight days elapsed between the time of the vessel's arrival and her condemnation and transfer to the Government, while but twenty-five elapsed between the arrival of the Princess Royal and her condemnation and transfer to the Government. The delays that arise in prize cases are for the most part entirely due to the claimants. Time is frequently asked by them to obtain additional proof, and often insists on going before the proof is in readiness. The delays in forwarding the money to Washington, for distribution, is generally caused by the disputes among the captors. Often the officers and crews of vessels claim a share to the proceeds, which the capturing vessel is not disposed to allow. The rule is, that all vessels in sight, or in signaling distance, at the time of the capture, are entitled to an equal share in the prize money, and it often becomes a nice question which vessels are in sight or signaling distance.—Philadelphia Ledger, May 22.

The Union Home School.

UNION HOME SCHOOL, 47TH AND 48TH STS., NEAR EIGHTH-AVENUE.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Will you be kind enough to correct a statement made in your valuable paper to-day? At the annual meeting held by the Managers at the Home, May 22, the officers were elected. But under the Annual Report was printed—(Jan. 1, 1863)—the State Legislature has given to the Society the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000.) A portion of your statement was taken from the Report, and although correct then, now it would not be so.

The money received from the State has enabled the Managers to receive more children in the Home School, and also to take a larger house with grounds for the children to play in, and also gardens for the cultivation of flowers, fruits and vegetables.

Over one hundred and fifty children have shared the comfort of the Home since the organization of the Society.

The public are invited to visit the school and judge for themselves if the ladies are not engaged in a good cause.

Any donations of provisions, goods or money will be thankfully received at any time.

Other citizens of the place have detailed their purpose to contribute toward this American enterprise.

Monday, May 25, P. M.

The Trade of the past week was on a small scale both in the Import entries, and to a fair average in the Export clearances of Domestic Produce. The Export demand for Gold is unusually moderate for this season of the year from this port, but part of this falling off is made up from San Francisco direct to England for New-York account. The Canal receipts of Produce are on the increase, and the prospect is good for a heavy business through the Summer months. The price of Gold Coin and rates of Foreign Exchange ruled with much steadiness through the week, leaving off about ¼ ⅌ cent lower than on Saturday week. There was some disturbance to the customary ease of the Money Market, so far as the wants of the Stock Brokers are concerned, early in the week, but after the check of Wednesday to the extreme speculative excitement and rapid advance in prices on the Stock Exchange, the rates and supply of Money resumed steadiness against the Treasury Office in this City absorbed $2,387,000 in the way of the conversion of United States currency into the New Loan of 1862, and this large sum was more than equal to the daily disbursements of the Government, except on Friday, when the outward payments were about of the receipts. The present balance is $26,130,198, against $22,616,568 on Saturday week.

On Monday and Tuesday the additional advance on the previous high figures on the Railway Shares at the Stock Board amounted to 5@8 ⅌ cent; but this excitement was followed by a precipitate downward turn on Wednesday, and by frequent violent fluctuations both ways, through the remainder of the week; prices finally closing buoyant again. The following was the general COURSE OF THE STOCK EXCHANGE FOR THE WEEK:

American Gold Coin
U. S. 6's coupons
U. S. Treasury Notes, 7.30 ⅌ cent
New-York Central
New-York and Erie
Erie Preferred Shares
Rock Island
Hudson River
Michigan Southern
Michigan Central
Toledo
Illinois Central
Pacific Mail
Cleveland and Pittsburgh
Harlem Common
Fort Wayne and Chicago
Chicago and North Western
Mississippi and Missouri

The price of Gold Coin was quite steady on Saturday, at 148¼@143⅞ cent. Exchange on London, 156 ⅌ cent. The rates for Money loaned, at call, to the Stock Brokers are 6@7 ⅌ cent. There was little complaint of the want of ease in the supply, though the employment of Money for account of speculators on the Stock Exchange is active. The Treasury disbursed on Friday about two and a half millions in excess of its receipts. The payments into the Treasury on Saturday for account of subscriptions to the New Loan of 1862 amount to $2,000,000, of which $1,500,000 was paid in by the Loan Agents, and the remainder on subscriptions at the Treasury direct.

The Stock Market moved somewhat irregularly, through the forenoon, but at the Second Board and after, the general temper was firm and prices in advance of Friday afternoon, on nearly all descriptions, by ½@¾ ⅌ cent. The closing dealings show the following rates, as compared with Friday P. M.: Harlem and Illinois Central shares were especially buoyant, and Erie old Stock in active demand:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The President yesterday received a telegraphic announcement of the fall of Vicksburgh. The message came through from Memphis to Cleveland on Saturday night, but did not reach Washington until yesterday forenoon. It says: "The Stars and Stripes float over Vicksburgh, and the victory is complete." Our latest previous intelligence is to the afternoon of the 20th, at which time the surrender of the place is supposed to have been made. The reception of more definite intelligence has been prevented by the disarrangement of the telegraph line connecting Memphis with Cleveland.

A summary of the important events which have preceded this great triumph, made up from our dispatches, will prove of interest. On the 30th of April Gen. Grant landed his forces at Bruinsburgh, below Grand Gulf. On the 1st of May the battle of Port Gibson was fought, resulting in the defeat of the rebels with heavy loss, and the evacuation of Grand Gulf. On the 12th the battle of Raymond was fought. On the 14th Joe Johnston was defeated at Jackson, losing 400 men and seventeen pieces of artillery. On the 16th the battle of Baker's Creek was fought, resulting in the defeat of the entire Vicksburgh force under Pemberton, with the loss of 4,000 men and twenty-nine pieces of artillery. On the 17th the same force of rebels was defeated at the Big Black River Bridge, with the loss of 2,600 men and seventeen cannon. On the 18th Vicksburgh was closely invested by our forces. Pemberton had lost 57 out of 60 pieces of artillery taken out by him. The city was cut off from Haines' Bluff, which was abandoned by the enemy, and a line of supplies was opened to the Mississippi via the Chickasaw Bayou. There was sharp fighting through the day on the 19th. Gen. Steele won and held the upper bluffs and the upper water batteries, and rested his right on the Mississippi. Admiral Porter's gunboats during the night kept the enemy on the alert, thus giving them not a moment's cessation of peril. The surrender, as above stated, probably took place on the afternoon of the 20th.

A rebel telegram, dated at Mobile, 21st, acknowledges the loss of thirty pieces of artillery in the fight of Saturday, at Baker's Creek. It also states that Gen. Grant was at first repulsed in the fight of Sunday, at the Big Black River Bridge, but that he afterwards succeeded in turning their left flank, when the bridge was burned and the works abandoned. The Richmond Enquirer, of the 23d, states that Gen. Loring was in command at Jackson.

A dispatch from Gen. Hurlbut, dated the 21st, at Memphis, states that the rebel Gen. Joe Johnston was last heard from at Calhoun, 17 miles above Jackson, with 6,000 men—the force with which he was driven out of the latter place—endeavoring to effect a junction with Pemberton at Edwards' Station. What has become of him since does not yet appear.

Seven hundred and eight prisoners captured by Gen. Grant at Port Gibson and Grand Gulf arrived at St. Louis on Sunday last. There are a large number of Missourians among them.

The advices from Tennessee are to the effect that Bragg is apprehensive of an attack by Gen. Rosecrans. His position at Horse Shoe Mountain is said to be strongly fortified. Our dispatches contain an account of a surprise of a camp of rebel cavalry in the vicinity of Middletown, in which eight rebels were killed and ninety captured. The rebel camp was destroyed.

We learn from the Army of the Potomac that the rebels are busy intrenching opposite the point where Gen. Hooker's forces made the lowest crossing before the late battles. Their pickets have been strengthened.

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Roanoke arrived at this port yesterday, from Havana on the 19th inst. She brings highly important intelligence from Mexico, brought to Havana by the French and English steamers from Vera Cruz. The French had been obliged to raise the siege of Puebla—in consequence, as they admit, of the impossibility of taking the place without reinforcements and heavier artillery. The English and Mexican advices, however, say that the French have been defeated, and have withdrawn toward Orizaba, where they are expected to await the arrival of more men and material. It is also reported that a French convoy, carrying $1,000,000, had been captured by the guerrillas.

By way of San Francisco we have advices from the City of Mexico to the 3d inst., and from Puebla to the 30th ult. Gen. Ortega, in a dispatch to Gen. Comonfort, thus sums up the situation: "The French have made eight assaults, succeeding only in two. We have lost nothing save our abandoned forts, and one line of defences. For the last thirty-one days we have not lost a foot of ground. The French continue to throw their bombs into the city, and are cutting ditches and covered ways for an attack on Santa Monica." The Mexicans were said to be about to commence offensive operations against the French, under the direction of President Juarez in person; and this may have had more to do with the retreat of the French from Puebla than appears on the face of the advices by way of Havana.

The steamship North Star arrived at this port last evening, from Aspinwall, which port she left on the 16th inst. She brings $264,621 in treasure. The news by this arrival is entirely without importance.

The steamer Eugenia, (Br.,) reported in the Times of Saturday as captured off Mobile while running the blockade, was formerly the Annie J. Symmes, built in New-York, and for some time used as a tug at this port. She was cleared as the Eugenia on the 26th of March, for Havana, Capt. Payrage.

A special dispatch to the Merchants' Exchange, Pine-street, dated St. Johns, N. F., May 22, announces the arrival at that port of Capt. Pearce and crew, of the British ship Himalaya, from Liverpool, March 31, for Montreal, which vessel had been totally lost in the ice on the 12th inst.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, an extensive fire occurred in a large chair manufactory near the junction of Pearl and Frankfort streets, by which a great amount of property was destroyed. One of the employes in the factory, named John Fox, was so badly burned that no hopes are entertained of his recovery. The fire originated from the explosion of a camphene lamp, which Fox, the victim, was trying to fill while lighted.

The Thirty-first regiment New-York Volunteers, Col. Frank Jones, numbering 318 men, arrived in this City from the Rappahannock at 2 P. M. Saturday. Escorted by Company A, Seventy-first regiment, N. Y. N. G., they returned regiment paraded up Broadway and down again to the Park Barracks, where they partook of a substantial dinner.

By the arrival of brig Maurice (Holland) Capt. Schroeder, we have advices from Curacoa to May 9. There is no news of importance. The emancipation of slaves will take place on July 1. Salt is in abundance, and of very fine quality. We hear from New-Granada that the Government of Gen. Mosquera is consolidating itself every day. From Venezuela we learn that the heads of the contending parties were about making a treaty of peace, although there was but little prospect of a permanent settlement. The Corn crop at Curacoa has this year been very poor.

The Court of General Sessions met Saturday, and after disposing of a few unimportant cases, adjourned for the term.

The Stock Market, on Saturday, left off firm on the Railway Shares, at an advance of 1@2 ⅌ cent. on Friday's closing figures. The demand for the New Loan of the United States amounted, in this City, to two millions of dollars. Money market steady. Gold 148¾.

Breadstuffs were in less demand on Saturday at a further reduction in prices. Pork was active, but cheaper. Other kinds of Provisions were in less request, as were also Groceries, Hides and Tallow. Wool, Hay and Petroleum were freely purchased. Cotton was more sought after, and was dearer. The changes in most other branches of trade were unimportant. There were 908 vessels of all classes in port.

The State Union League Convention.

This gathering, which is to take place at Utica on Wednesday of the present week, bids fair to realize the highest hopes of those who have wished for some demonstration of the loyalty of the State commensurate with its rank and influence in the Union. The efforts that have been made by the Copperheads to dissuade the returned soldiers from participating in the occasion have only recoiled upon the miserable authors. The soldiers have only been made to feel an intenser hate, a profounder detestation of them than ever; and will all the more rejoice in the opportunity to show to the people that they know how to stand by the old flag at home as stannchly as in the field of battle. Many of the veterans of 1812, in various parts of the State, tottering as they are under the burden of years, have caught the same ardor, and have resolved to make one merry rally. The presence of these old relics of the heroism of fifty years ago, will give a peculiar consecration to the patriotic spirit of the day.

Would that some Websters were to be present to address them, as he did the Revolutionary veterans at Bunker Hill, fifty years after the scenes of 1775. And yet how different would be his language. He would find just such "venerable men," who have "come down to us from a former generation." But what bitter mockery it would be to address these with such words of congratulation—to say to these: "Heaven has bountiously lengthened out your lives, that you might behold this joyous day." How impossible to utter: "All is peace, and God has granted you this sight of your country's happiness, ere you slumber in the grave. He has allowed you to behold and partake the reward of your patriotic toils." "Veterans of half a century!" he exclaimed to them, "when in your youthful days you put everything at hazard in your country's cause, good as that cause was, and sanguine as youth is, still your fondest hopes did not stretch onward to an hour like this!" What a terrible contrast to the language that would best these "veterans of half a century." Their most dreadful fears did not stretch downward to an hour like this. They never had the remotest glimpse of even the possibility of the hideous, hellish treason that is now straining for the destruction of the Republic; and we don't doubt that many of them have felt pangs of anguish that they have lived to see it. And yet, after all, we do not know but that these old men are better entitled to the language of congratulation than was that noble old band of the two hundred veterans of the Revolution whom Webster addressed on that memorable occasion. They have the practical, visible assurance, which the others in those "piping days of peace" could not have, that their children would dare as much and do as much against the enemies of the country as they themselves did; that the old noble breed had not degenerated; that the blood which they had poured out was not simply a price for future blessings, but was an earnest of the sacrifice which Americans of every generation would be ready to offer on the altar of their country. We believe, after all, that these old heroes will find a greater joy and pride in the resolute front of the soldiers just returned from the battle-fields, and in the jubilant protestations of the people that they will stand by the old flag so long as a shred of it flies, than the other old heroes found in all the proud tokens of development and progress and prosperity which the orator of that day dwelt upon with such matchless eloquence.

The glorious news from Vicksburgh will inspire the Convention with a joyous enthusiasm, which could hardly have been possible under the unrelieved shadow of the reverses in Virginia. It will, in fact, give the gathering the character of a jubilee. But still better than that, it will form the most forcible of all arguments, the most impressive of all illustrations, of the virtue of steady purpose and unflagging effort. It requires but the same fidelity which has finally wrought the downfall of this stronghold of the rebellion, to insure the complete overthrow of the rebellion itself. Doubt and despondency are rebuked; and the high faith of those who have never wavered is justified in a manner that now challenges from everybody the same high faith. The Convention cannot fail of being thoroughly penetrated by the influences of this grand accomplishment. All things combine to make this the most imposing and most telling demonstration of the kind since this war began.

The Fall of Vicksburgh.

We have come nowadays to doubt a large number of the announcements of the telegraph; but we earnestly trust there is nothing but truth in the dispatch that Gen. Grant's army is in Vicksburgh, and that his victory is complete. We had previously learned that the outer works had been taken—that Haines' Bluff batteries, immediately on the north, the Warrenton batteries immediately on the south, and the line of the Big Black River, including the great railroad bridge, in the rear, were all in our hands. We had learned that Gen. Grant had fought five pitched battles with the rebels, in all of which he had been successful. We had seen how skillfully he had divided their forces—driving Loring south of Jackson, Johnston north of it, and Pemberton into Vicksburgh. We knew that he had committed terrible havoc in the enemy's ranks, had captured in the vicinity of 10,000 prisoners and an immense quantity of artillery. We knew that after his victory of Sunday last he had marched directly upon Vicksburgh, and, in the words of his Assistant Adjutant-General, had "invested it closely," while, at the same time, Porter's fleet in the Mississippi opened a bombardment. On the 20th the right wing of our army had reached and rested on the Mississippi, above Vicksburgh, and, in the language of one dispatch, our men drank water from that river.

Thus everything so far had been favorable, and it only remained to close the drama at Vicksburgh, and the stupendous drama of Grant's campaign in the Mississippi Valley, by the fall of the great stronghold. The announcement now is that that crowning act has been achieved, and that the "Stars and Stripes float over Vicksburgh." The people of the East will partially appreciate the greatness of the triumph; but as the thunders of victory at Vicksburgh echo and rechoo up and down the Great Valley, they will seem, to the ten millions of people who inhabit it, as the thunders of inevitable doom to the rebel Confederacy.

The French in Mexico—Continued Disasters.

The first chapter of the French movement upon Mexico seems drawing to a close. The intelligence by way of Havana, which we publish this morning, indicates the substantial failure of the invasion. The official dispatch of the Mexican Gen. Ortega, from Puebla, dated April 29, received via San Francisco, and published yesterday, says: "We have lost nothing save our abandoned forts and our line of defences. For the last thirty-one days we have not lost a foot of ground." In corroboration of Gen. Ortega's dispatch, we publish this morning later intelligence from Mexico by the steamer Roanoke, to the effect that the French have actually been obliged to raise the siege of Puebla, and make a retrograde movement toward Orizaba. We have not the full particulars of this movement of the French, but the statement is highly important, as it comes direct and bears the evidence of truth. If it proves to be true, the failure of the French in Mexico is complete for the present at least, and it is very doubtful whether a renewal of the attempt to conquer the country will ever be made.

This is a curious ending of a very curious crusade, which was set on foot two years ago. In the Summer of 1861, Barron, a wealthy Anglo-Mexican speculator and contraband trader, Miramon, a Mexican brigand, and Padre Miranda, the representative of the bigoted retrogression Church party in Mexico, taking advantage of our civil troubles, went to Europe, and induced England, France and Spain to form a military coalition against Mexico. This tripartite coalition fell to pieces the moment it touched the Mexican coast, early in 1862. England and Spain had the sagacity to withdraw their forces, leaving Mexico in the hands of France alone. Three parties more thoroughly incompetent and incapable of giving an intelligent and correct statement of affairs in Mexico, upon which to base any important action relative to that country, than Barron, Miramon and Miranda, could not be found. These representatives of evil in Mexico told the French Emperor, more especially, that all he had to do was to land his army at Vera Cruz, and march through friendly Mexican hosts straight to the Capital, and occupy the country, with little or no resistance.

It is now nearly two years since Louis Napoleon commenced to send out forces to Mexico, first in connection with England and Spain, and now it is fourteen months since he undertook to carry out the enterprise on his own account. During this two years, 40,000 French soldiers have been landed on Mexican territory. Of this number 15,000 at least have been destroyed or permanently disabled by battle or disease. The expense, according to the French budget some months ago, had reached 104,000,000 francs, and the expenditures were so rapidly augmenting as to frighten the French Minister of Finance. And what is now the condition of the French in Mexico? They have marched to Puebla, the first point of opposition, where for one month and a half they have closely invested the place, and by every means known to modern warfare they have maintained a furious assault, and done everything in their power to insure its reduction. But they accomplished nothing save the occupation of two forts on an unimportant line of the Mexican fortifications

OF SATURDAY, JUNE 6,

EXPLANATION.

"THE ROUND PACK, A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER," is the title of one of the most patheticcomic, powerful, humorous, (strike, Harry, exciting, and withal significant stories that ever appeared in an American Newspaper. It was writing by Dr. J. H. Robinson for the NEW-YORK MERCURY, and it takes the reader behind the curtain of the Rebellion, and gives him a glimpse, or rather a graphic, picturesque view of Chivalry, in the act of persecuting the unfortunate for their attachment to the institutions of their fathers and that glorious Union with which rational Liberty must either stand or fall.

LOYALISTS OF THE SOUTH

THE ROUND PACK

is full to overflowing of such delectable "notions" as foot-breadth escapes, hairbreadth escapes, thrilling situations, plots and counterplots, and delightful little episodes of a tender nature. It very modestly in describe particularly the contents of the "Pack," since the whole community is sure to overhaul it, and to make acquaintance with the MYSTERIOUS PEDDLER, who has charge of it. See the first installment of the story, published in the NEW-YORK MERCURY of June 6, and for sale by every newsvender in the country at noon to-day.

A GRAND WAR EPISODE,

from the pen of

under the name of

THE ROUND PACK,

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER,

opens in the

NEW-YORK MERCURY,

JUNE 6, 1863.

Ready for delivery at all the News Agencies in the Union at noon to-day.

This growing story, full of the wildest interest, will enable Loyal Northern Readers to understand the terrible privations and dangers which their patriot brethren and sisters in the South and Southwest are exposed to suffer. Extraordinarily as some of the incidents, related with such marvelous descriptive power, may seem to be, they have unfortunately their parallels in the real life of Union men and women in the Insurrectionary States. Ties of kindred, the obligations of friendship, all social relations, are held as nothing by the partisan populace of certain portions of the South, in the eagerness to hound and torture the upholders of the Union. A most vigorous and life-like picture of the wild injustice and abnegation of all laws, human and Divine, which prevail in certain sections of the South, is given in this soul-stirring romance. The NEW-YORK MERCURY is the largest and most popular paper of its class published in America. Price FIVE CENTS.

Agencies in the Union.

The action of Tennessee now overrun by Rebel guerillas is the scene of this exciting tale. Multitudes of Unionists in that region are now suffering the same persecutions to which the CROSBY FAMILY are represented as being subjected, in the progress of the narrative. On this account and because it presents to the North, with startling earnestness and amazing descriptive power, the horrors which surround every Union household within the rebel lines, "The Round Pack" will create an immense sensation in the free States. Of all the works of its author, it is by many degrees the most effective. He seems to have thrown all the energies of his heart and soul and brain into the task, and the result is one of the most striking romances of modern times.

The illustrations by DARLEY are superb. He too seems to have caught the inspiration of the theme, and has portrayed with thrilling effect, the most striking scenes and situations of the story.

The word-painting of the AUTHOR and the graphic delineations of the ARTIST, combine to form a series of historical and domestic pictures of UNION LIFE IN THE SOUTHWEST, which will live in the minds of the people as long as memory lasts.

Bear in mind that the NEW-YORK MERCURY, containing the opening of the new story, is to-day in the hands of every News Agent doing business on Union Soil. Price FIVE CENTS.

NEW-YORK MERCURY.

THE GREAT HIT OF THE HOUR!

THE ROUND PACK,

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER,

BY

DR. J. H. ROBINSON,

Makes its debut in the

NEW-YORK MERCURY,

JUNE 6, 1863.

The history of the Great Rebellion transcends all Romance, but there was a gap in it, which this story-an Historical Episode, embellished and vivified up, with amazing power, by the pen of genius—most authoritatively fills. No such picture of the Out Groves, under which the adherents of the Union, in the secided States live, and plot for other, has hitherto been given to the world. It is startling, instructive, for it is a portraiture of things as they are, and dead indeed to sympathy must be the heart of any person of the North who can read it unmoved. As a literary production merely, it would command critical commendation, but at this particular crisis it will undoubtedly create a profound sensation among all classes of society. The introductory chapters, published in the NEW-YORK MERCURY of the 6th of June, (ready at noon to-day, in the hands of the news agents,) are an earnest of what may be expected in the progress of the tale. In the words of one of the most eminent critics connected with the American Press, to whom it was presented in manuscript by the author: "'The Round Pack' is not surpassed in vigor of description, bold and happy delineation of character, and dramatic effect, in the whole range of American romance." This is high praise, but the reader will recognize its justice as he perusal the thread of the narrative. It is not too much to say that he will soon, in single personality in the wild and adventurous career described, and that hereafter, in recalling the incidents of the story, he will feel disposed to speak of them in the words of a hero of the past, and say, these my adventures "all of which I saw, and part of which I was."

The NEW-YORK MERCURY, known everywhere as the medium through which the best efforts of the most popular American Story writers have been given to the public, will hereafter well possess higher claims than ever to universal patronage. Besides its Romances, Novels, Negotiations, Gems, Ladies' Department, Original Poems, Compositions of National and Sectional Wit and Humor, &c., it will contain from time to time valuable practical articles on subjects that come home to the "business and bosoms" of the million, of which plan the series of admirable papers under the general head of is cited as a specimen. The second number of this series appears in the Edition of June 6, in which Dr. J. H. Robinson's new story opens.

COTTON AND ITS HISTORY,

The pencil of the inimitable DARLEY, the first designer in America, illustrates all the prominent stories in the NEW-YORK MERCURY, and the engravings after his drawings, by which each installment of "The Round Pack" will be accompanied, cannot fail to strike the commentators in wood-cuts as among the finest specimens of art that have ever adorned the pages of an American newspaper. The Edition of June 6 will be in the hands of all the Newsvenders at noon to-day. Price Five Cents.

DR. J. H. ROBINSON,

author of "Scotto the Scout," "Buck Bison," "Good-For-Nothing Dick," "Catharina," &c., &c.

THE ROUND PACK:

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER.

It contains such pictures of the sufferings of Loyal Families in the Guerrilla-ridden region of the Southwest, as may well startle the Northern public, the more especially as they are founded on real incidents. The story displays great versatility of talent. In the mournful portions there is, as the Spaniards fitly say, "a tear in every word," while the livelier passages sparkle with the richest native humor. The pencil of the great American Illustrator, FELIX O. C. DARLEY, has been employed to embellish the story, and the wood engravings are most artistic and effective. The Round Pack: A Tale of the FORKED DEER, opens in the New-York MERCURY of June 6, for sale everywhere, at noon to-day.

A GRAND STORY,

The romantic literature which will startle, enchant and delight the public mind this season, is the account, in the

NEW-YORK MERCURY OF JUNE 6,

Ready at noon to-day, of Dr. J. H. Robinson's Romance of the Southwest.

THE ROUND PACK.

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER.

This glorious story, in which womanly heroism, manly daring, her cunning, youthful enthusiasm, chivalrous nobility and true patriotism, are illustrated in a series of wonderful adventures in the very heart of the guerrilla region of Tennessee, takes the reader into the dark and turmoil of the nation, and enables him to realize the actual condition of things in the very vortex of the rebellion. It is a tale of mysterious metamorphoses, unknown foes, escapes, terrible sufferings and unwavering patriotism. Bolds and Scraps, love passages of the deepest interest, and rare touches of quaint and original wit and humor, are among the startling and entertaining features of the Romance. Whoever reads the initial chapter will be sure to read every subsequent one.

The Unionist does not live who can read this powerful story without personal emotion. The sufferings, the hungings, the persecuting of every kind that disloyal hatred can conceive and fiendish cruelty perpetrate, to which Union families in the South have been and continue to be subjected, are but faintly outlined in the North. In this masterly story they are portrayed with startling fidelity. The actual experiences of Patriot Refugees are its basis. There is a terrible fascination in the details which it is impossible to resist. A powerful spell is cast upon the mind of the reader, in the initial chapters, and whoever reads them will feel compelled to follow the narrative to its close. The lively scene with which the story opens is wonderfully dramatic. The writer takes his reader into the house of a persecuted Union household, and makes him the spectator of an interview between a high-minded youth who has been forced into the rebel ranks, but has deserted at the hazard of his life, and his father, mother and sister. The opening of the Peddler's Pack, the meeting between the young fugitive and his parents, the modern symbolism of the persecuted peddler, the quick wit and indomitable pluck of Little Meg, the consternation of the group at the appearance of the brutal partisan spy, the manner in which he is cowed and baffled by the fierce determination of the Patriot, form one of the most striking pictures to be found in the gallery of modern romance. Nothing can exceed the fidelity of the dialogue. The author does not define the characters—they define themselves with their own tongue and by their own acts. Each stands out salient and distinct, the original creation of a master hand. And their distinctive peculiarities are recognized in every scene and incident of the tale. Nor are these scenes and incidents, extraordinary as they may seem to the Northern reader, acting under his own vine and fig tree, will cause to make him afraid, overdrawn. Villany so black as that which the reader shudders in the romance, actually exists and carries out the infernal designs with impunity in the hotbeds of Southern Treason; and the high-toned devotion of its victims is not exaggerated in the history of the terrible trials of the patriotic Croshans.

Dr. J. H. Robinson's Romances have reached the extent of the "days that tried men's souls," familiar to millions of readers, but this exciting story, founded on contemporary history, eclipses everything he has heretofore produced, and places him in the first rank of modern story writers. This will be admitted by all who read "The Round Pack." The first installment displays wonderful creative power. The characters introduced are all widely different—yet each is American. There is no other nation on the face of the earth to which they could be supposed to belong. Whoever has traveled through the United States has seen their types in real life. They are not modelled after foreign patterns, as are the dramatic personae of most of the starlets called American. The narrative is of intense interest. It interweds the sympathies, it enthralls the attention. It has all the fascination of romance, combined with the force and vividness of reality. It is unnecessary to ask any one who may peruse the early chapters to follow the fortunes of the characters to the close. This is a matter of necessity. "The Round Pack" is one of those harrowing stories that people dream about after they have read them, and of which they must know the issue.

Determined that the public taste for interesting narrative shall be gratified to the fullest possible extent in the pages of the

to its present variety. As an earnest of their wish begins before its readers new views of

POPULAR SUBJECTS,

they invite attention to the valuable series of practical articles on the first of which appears in the number of the 6th of May. The ladies of the United States are acquainted with all the qualities and shades and uses of the cotton fabrics of the day, but they know little of the enthusiasm of the new dispute, or of the processes by which it is converted into the innumerable articles and styles of goods which they handle every day. They know that these goods are at present sold at enormous prices, but nothing of the commercial speculation and tricks of trade which are at the bottom of the matter, and, to a great extent, unnecessarily advance, in their retail cost. Touching these matters and many others, the series of papers headed in the columns of the NEW-YORK WEEKLY MERCURY, will interest them, and they will find it to their advantage to read them.

COTTON,

"COTTON AND ITS HISTORY,"

THE

ROUND PACK,

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER.

BY

DR. J. H. ROBINSON,

APPEARS IN THE

NEW-YORK

MERCURY

June 6,

READY AT EVERY NEWS DEPOT IN THE COUNTRY AT NOON TO-DAY.

The Round Pack, a tale of the Forked Deer, is a moving story of the persecutions endured by Unionists in the Rebel States, from vindictive and merciless neighbors and mobbers, whose hands are red with the blood of Patriots. The chief interest of the place centers in a family, headed by Grace Wahl-wives as the special objects of their hatred and malice, and the picture of the sufferings of this unfortunate household, terrible as it is, is not exaggerated.

The story opens with a most thrilling description of a chandelier meeting between a brave youth who had been impressed into the rebel service, and his parents and sister, brought about by the intervention of a stranger, who, if it only be one, is to be one of the most prominent figures in this "strange eventful history." The character of this mysterious personage is outlined in the first three chapters with a degree of graphic power that has not been excelled by any romancist of the present age. There is nothing finer in the whole range of Cooper's stories. The man Giles stands before you. You see him, hear him, recognize him as a living entity. Harvey Birch, in the "Spy," Leatherstocking, in the "Pioneers," is not more boldly drawn. He is a character entirely different from either—an original of a distinct type, yet thoroughly American. Meg, the resolute and daring servant girl of the persecuted Union family, is another wonderful creation of genius. Sir Walter Scott has given us nothing in the way of feminine subtlety and ready humor, that surpasses this little Southwestern heroine. The book encounter of wit between Giles and Meg in the first installment of the story, is delicious. Lieutenant Walrous, a brutal, cursing, cowardly, self-fighting rebel spy, is portrayed with a masterly pen. Every Unionist who has escaped from the toils of Southern tyranny, will recognize in this villain the type of a class not a little less cruel and conspicuous than the blood-hounds which they set on the trades of their victims. The "chivalry" of the Revolutionary war were not more depraved than these Bandits of Rebellion, and their doings are described in "The Round Pack" with a verisimilitude that will make the reader's blood run cold.

The promise of the early chapters of the tale is more than fulfilled in its progress and denouement. It is not generally the nothing also that its gifted author has yet produced, and without a parallel, either in the exciting interest of the scenes or the ingenuity of the plot, in the whole range of American romance.

THE NEW-YORK MERCURY

already stands at the head of all publications of its price and class in the variety of its literary merits and the amount of matter contained in each number. Now, however, of an entirely original character, are now being added to them which have given to this HOUSEHOLD WEEKLY its extraordinary popularity. A series of papers of special interest to every man and woman in the land, entitled has just been commenced in its columns. The origin, the cultivation and manufacture of the UNIVERSAL STAPLE are discussed at length in these articles, upon which an immense amount of labor and research has been expended. Information invaluable to MERCHANTS and MANUFACTURERS, and of great interest to LADIES and FAMILIES, is comprised in the series. It is safe to say that such a history of the Cotton trade has never before been put in print, and the amusing little and facts which it contains ought to be in the hands of every individual who wears cotton fabrics and suffers in purse from the out-throat prices which speculation has affixed to them.

"COTTON AND ITS HISTORY,"

The NEW-YORK MERCURY is enriched with contributions from the first literary men and the best female writers in the country, and is for sale by all News Agents. Price, FIVE CENTS.

THE PACK! THE PACK!

The pack to which it is proposed to call everybody's attention in this advertisement, is not a pack of hounds, nor a pack of cards, nor a pack of wool, nor a pack of yarn, but

"THE ROUND PACK,

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER,"

—describing with wonderful vividness and power the battle, intrigue, persecutions and sufferings of

A UNION FAMILY AMONG THE REBELS.

It is a romance of the highest order, founded on actual experiences, and was written expressly for the

NEW-YORK MERCURY,

by the greatest of modern American Romancists,

Dr. J. H. ROBINSON.

To suppose that this astonishing Tale of a Pack, brimfull as it is of adventure and containing passages of the most irresistible humor, as well as the deepest pathos, will not create a Union-relief sensation, would be to suppose the public, what they certainly are not, viz.

A PACK OF SIMPLETONS.

THE COTTON CONSPIRATORS, who have enhanced the price of the great staple beyond its legitimate value, are invited to read the conservative papers under the head of

COTTON AND ITS HISTORY,

in the NEW-YORK MERCURY. The second of the series appears in the Edition of June 6, ready at noon, today, at all the news agencies in the Union. These articles are of deep interest to all concerned in the manufacture and sale of the now lent as the center numbers of the body politic who motive over the exorbitant rates at which cotton fabrics are sold. From the era of Hargreaves to that of A. T. Stewart & Co., the progress of the wonderful product is traced through all its vicissitudes. In next, the articles in the NEW-YORK MERCURY constitute an unbroken thread of Cotton History from the year 4th, B. C., to the year 1863, A. D. No pains have been spared to make the narrative full and reliable, and those who want to know all about Cotton, from

GREAT WEARABLE,

THE PLANTATION TO THE LOOM,

from the boll to the needle, must read, mark, and inwardly digest "COTTON AND ITS HISTORY."

THE ROUND PACK,

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER,

By Dr. J. H. ROBINSON.

The greatest American Novelist since Fenimore Cooper.

The first installment of this absorbing story appears in the NEW-YORK MERCURY of June 6. "The Round Pack" is by many degrees the most deeply interesting story that has ever appeared in the GREAT HOUSEHOLD NEWSPAPER.

Paragraphs and brief narratives are published from time to time in the daily Press, relative to the hardships, wrongs and sufferings of the Loyal Unionists of the South, but daily give no correspondence of the terrible reality. In this soothing story the numerous facts are presented in all their heart-rending pathos. It displays the reader like a graphic picture, or rather, series of pictures, in which the hand of genius has made the romance of history immortal. The NEW-YORK MERCURY contains a larger amount and greater variety of original matter than any other family paper in America, published at Five Cents.

HAVE YOU A HEART?

If you have, it will be touched, and deeply, too, by

DR. J. H. ROBINSON'S

New and marvellous Story of

THE ROUND PACK,

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER.

Commenced in the

OF

JUNE 6, READY AT NOON TO-DAY.

The trials, persecutions and escapes of a Union Family in Tennessee, constitute the main interest of this masterly story. The distinguished author lifts the curtain from the "Land of Chivalry," and exhibits

REBEL CRUELTY UNVEILED.

The characters are delineated with a force and clearness that are perfectly wonderful, and sympathy, admiration, indignation, and mirth, are alternately excited by the dialogue and incidents of this story. It is the only faithful and comprehensive picture of the sad condition of Patriot Families under the

REIGN OF TERROR

in the South which has yet been given to the world, and in the whole scope of Historic Romance there is nothing superior to its striking scenes and fine delineations of character. Every phase of the Southern nature is brought upon the tapis, under almost every conceivable variety of circumstances. The NEW-YORK MERCURY'S original popular romances and novelettes are a part of the STANDARD LITERATURE of the age. Sold at every News Agency in America.

THE WORLD AND HIS WIFE

Know but little, it is believed, of the

HISTORY OF COTTON,

its antiquity, its cultivation, or its manufacture. They are, therefore, recommended to read the series of interesting articles on these subjects, now being published in the

NEW-YORK MERCURY.

From these they may, perhaps, learn that an sufficient reason for the so industriously promoted by speculators, really exists, and that the present high prices of cotton fabrics, and of everything into the composition of which cotton enters, are by no means warranted by the state of the trade. "Cotton and its History, in the NEW-YORK MERCURY, will be found the most interesting, full and reliable account of the plant, of cotton manufactures, and of the influence which the product exercises over local and general commerce, governmental policy and finance, that has ever been published. The articles contain a variety of information both interesting and valuable to ladies, who really ought not limit themselves to such knowledge of the universal wearable as they have, so to speak, at their fingers' ends.

The NEW-YORK MERCURY, in addition to its capital romances, (of which "The Round Pack; A Tale of the Forked Deer," by Dr. J. H. Robinson, just commencing in the edition of June 6, ready at noon to-day, is the best ever published in its columns,) its admirable Revelation, Gossipers' Club, &c., &c., is now publishing Information for the people on subjects of the highest interest. It is the largest newspaper of its class, as well as the best. Price FIVE CENTS.

THE ROUND PACK;

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER.

By Dr. J. H. Robinson,

Of which the first installment is given in the

NEW-YORK MERCURY

of the 6th of June, is at once a splendid HISTORICAL ROMANCE and a most touching DOMESTIC NARRATIVE. Many of the prominent events of the story are historical facts, and they are interwoven with rare skill, with the adventures, persecutions, and other experiences of a Patriot Household, whose members seem to be especial marks for the malice of the irregular military, spies and cut-throats of that portion of Tennessee which has not yet been purged of Treason and placed under the protection of the Union Flag and the Union Swords. Dr. J. H. Robinson, in his "Buck Bison," "Scotto the Scout," "Good-For-Nothing Dick," "Catharina," "Cepheria," and many other fascinating stories, has evinced a talent and skill in his plots, and delineation of character, which place him in the vanward rank of American romancists. But in "The Round Pack" he has surpassed himself. The very best of his former efforts, founded on contemporary American history, pales before this truly original and most impressive and picturesque story. It will be read and re-read with the deepest interest by millions, and will then take its place, and a high place too, among the standard works of the most celebrated American novelists. The NEW-YORK MERCURY of June 6, will be in the hands of all the news agents in the Union at noon to-day. Price Five Cents.

THE ROUND PACK,

A TALE OF THE FORKED DEER.

Showing the manner in which Union families are hunted down by the partisans of rebellion in the Southwest. Terrible domestic experiences, and war scenes of the most exciting character, are intermingled in this extraordinary story, with humorous incidents and thousand-and-thousand dialogues, that would provoke a smile from gravity itself. Truly it is a tale of smiles and tears, of storm and sunshine. Like Garrick, the author seems to have tragedy and comedy equally at his fingers' ends. The "Round Pack" will unquestionably prove the most popular romance to which the war has given birth. There is no living novelist that could have treated the subject chosen more happily.

AUCTION SALES.

EXECUTOR'S SALE.

THE UNDERSIGNED, AS EXECUTOR OF W. EMILE FIELD, deceased, will, in order to close the estate, sell at public auction, on SATURDAY, the 30th day of May, 1863, at 11 o'clock A. M., at the dwelling-house on the premises, in the village of Peekskill, the real estate of the said Field, usually known as the CAPT. EQUA FARM, situated near the flourishing village of Peekskill, on the Hudson River, the first-stopping place of Railroad Express trains North. The place consists of about

TWO HUNDRED ACRES OF FERTILE LAND, on which is a great variety of fruit and shade-trees, and abounds in

ELIGIBLE BUILDING SITES,

with unsurpassed views of the Bay, Highlands and surrounding country.

It is believed that for the number of its beautiful locations, the excellence of its soil, its proximity to schools and churches, convenience to the River and Railroad, and the extent, variety and beauty of its prospect, this property presents inducements for purchase which are rarely offered.

The property is well adapted for division, being already intersected by avenues, and will be sold in parcels to suit purchasers on accommodating terms. The executor, before the day of public sale, will sell at private sale any portion that may be desired.

For information as to the property, apply to THOMAS NELSON, Esq., No. 85 Liberty-st.; ISAAC SEYMOUR, President of the State of North-America, No. 48 Wall-st.; D. F. CLAFF, Cashier of Westchester County Bank, Peekskill; or to the subscriber, at Croton Landing.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by Dr. ROBERTS & CO., No. 80 Lexington-ave., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or confinement of clients. Dr. WARD, from the Hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for disease in a private character. He is the most practical Medical Man in the City. Thousands have consulted him who have spent more than all others combined. I can and will cure you in half the time and for less money than any other Physician. Young men who have been deceived by others, and have spent their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in all cases he undertakes, including those of long standing and complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhoea or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a few days. Debility from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks. Permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 24 Lispenard-st., the only place. Call, send or write.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS—BY DR. POWERS. SUCCESS. Highly esteemed work Dr. WARD, No. 24 Lispenard-st., Graduated on the plan of the Hospital for Venereal in Paris, where cases afflicted with any form of private disease that require strange treatment, without risk or exposure, viz.: Gleet, Stricture, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Orchitis, Syphilis, Diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Urinary complaints, Diseases of the Rectum, &c., &c. Thirty years of successive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of these complaints, enable me to effect cures in cases where others have failed, or have experienced no benefit. Dr. Powers' Experience of 30 years, recent 24 hours, Youth in four weeks. The marvelous effects of the Medicines, Bathing and Medical Treatment, in cases of Impotency, Premature Decay, Nervous Debility, Dizziness, Loss of Sight, Confusion of Ideas, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Sight, Nervous Irritability, Pimples on the Face, Blotches, Aversion to Society, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Nervous Tremblings, Dreadful Dreams, Nervous Fears, Hot Hands, Feet and Flushings of Heat, Sudden Starts, Wakefulness, Pain in the Head, Hot Skin, Eruptions

UNION.

LOYAL LEAGUE OF UNION CITIZENS.
NEW-YORK, May 22, 1863.

PROGRAMME
OF ARRANGEMENTS FOR GRAND MASS ASSEMBLAGE OF LOYAL PEOPLE, AT UTICA, ONEIDA COUNTY, ON THE 27TH OF MAY, 1863.

THE PROCEEDINGS WILL EMBRACE MEASURES IN HONOR OF THE RETURNED VETERANS OF THE WAR.

1. Members of the League, the Committee and Guests, comprising representatives of Returned Volunteers, Veterans of 1812, Invited Guests and Deputations from other States, will leave the City by Hudson River Railroad, for Albany, from 30th-st., on TUESDAY, 26th inst., at 10½ A. M.

2. Deputations and Guests from the River Counties will join the party by taking the Morning Boat at the several landings or the cars at the Stations.

3. Leave Albany by special train of the Central Railroad, on Tuesday Evening or Wednesday Morning.

4. Excursion Tickets to be arranged with Boats and Railroads, as far as practicable.

5. Members of the League and other citizens, who do not take the morning train of the 26th, will reach Utica in season by the afternoon train of this day.

6. A Special Committee of Arrangements at Utica will perfect the preliminary arrangements for the Meeting, and the proceedings consequent thereon.

7. It is recommended that in the several Counties of the State, the loyal people will form committees and organize bodies, especially comprising the returned volunteers, to participate in the movement; and, wherever it be practicable for loyal women to unite in this demonstration of patriotism, it is earnestly hoped that every encouragement will be given to induce their presence and cooperation.

AT UTICA.

His Excellency the Governor of the State has been invited to take part in the proceedings.

8. The exercises will commence at 10 o'clock A. M. on Wednesday, the 27th inst. PROCESSIONS of returned volunteers, citizens, deputations, guests and visitors, will be formed, under the direction of a Marshal, to be selected by the Committee of the citizens of Utica. On arrival at the places selected for public addresses, a presiding officer and assistants will be nominated for each stand, of whom one or more will be taken from each county and each volunteer regiment represented. Appropriate music, by bands and glee singers, will enliven the exercises, which will be continued till 3 o'clock P. M.

9. At 2 o'clock a repast will be taken for refreshment, and a procession formed from the several stands to the grounds selected for a Barbecue, which will be provided under the direction of the Utica Committee. It will comprise an ample collation, with tea and coffee, but without spirituous liquors, for deputations from Leagues and Regiments, families, visitors and citizens in attendance on the public exercises.

10. At 7 o'clock public Addresses will be continued from the balconies of the hotels or the platforms, interspersed with music, and the stands will be brilliantly illuminated by torches and Calcium lights.

11. Reporters will be present to take notes of the loyal addresses delivered on an occasion of so much interest.

12. The Committee are induced to hope that the Erastus Corning Company, whose stations are on the central line of travel, will unite in this movement, and give additional éclat to the Processions.

13. The deputations from the City of New-York and the Eastern Counties, will leave Utica on their return on Thursday morning.

14. Further details of the arrangements will be announced from time to time, together with the names of the distinguished speakers who have consented to address the assemblage.

By order of the Committee of Arrangements.
P. M. WETMORE, Secretary.

LOYAL NATIONAL LEAGUE.

At a meeting held at Cooper Institute on Saturday evening, 23d inst., of Delegates to the Committee of the Loyal National League, to be held at Utica on the 26th inst., it was resolved, that the New-York Delegation meet at Utica on TUESDAY MORNING, at 9 o'clock. The place of meeting will be advertised at the depot at Utica.
ALEX. McLEAN, Secretary. ROBERT B. ROOSEVELT, President.

PEOPLE'S UNION GENERAL COMMITTEE OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW-YORK.—A special meeting of the above Committee will be held on MONDAY EVENING, May 25, at 8 o'clock, at the headquarters, No. 111 8th-st., corner of 16th-st. Business of importance will be transacted.
JOHN J. REYNOLDS, IRA G. MILLER, President.
WASHINGTON MULLER, Secretaries.

VETERAN CORPS OF THE WAR OF 1812 will assemble at the Mercer House, corner Broome and Mercer-sts., on MONDAY MORNING, 25th instant, at 9 o'clock, for the purpose of accepting an invitation to go on an excursion to Utica, to attend a Mass Meeting of Veterans, on WEDNESDAY, 27th instant, free of expense to soldiers. By order of
H. RAYMOND, Brigadier-General.
A. DALLEY, Colonel.
ISAAC M. PRYTE, Adjutant.
N. B.—Veterans of adjoining counties are invited to meet with us.

No. 48 Fifth-st., N. Y. City, May 24, 1863.

ORDERS.—THE RETURNED TWO YEARS VOLUNTEERS, who are desirous of participating in the Loyal League Celebration, to take place at Utica on the 27th inst., will assemble at the Arsenal, corner of 35th-st. and 7th-av., on the morning of the 26th inst., at 8 o'clock precisely, in full uniform, for the purpose of receiving their arms and equipments.

Colonels of regiments will take such additional measures as may seem necessary for the purpose of carrying out the above order. By command of

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A NEW WORK BY MARIA J. McINTOSH.

D. APPLETON & CO.,
Nos. 443 and 445 Broadway,
PUBLISH THIS DAY,
TWO PICTURES;
OR,
WHAT WE THINK OF OURSELVES, AND WHAT THE WORLD THINKS OF US.
By MARIA J. McINTOSH,
Author of "Two Lives; or, To Seem and To Be; Charms and Counter Charms, etc., etc."
1 vol. 12mo. Cloth; 470 Pages. $1 50.

"The previous works of Miss McIntosh have been popular in the best sense of the word. The simple beauty of her narrative, combined with an excellent moral, high principle, and noble views of life and its duties, ought to win for them a hearing at every fireside in our land. The lapse of time since we have had any work of fiction from her pen, has only served to increase her power."

Says of
SUNSHINE IN THOUGHT,
BY CHARLES GODFREY LELAND:

"The whole volume tends to create or thought that sunshine, which is so peculiarly recommended and enforced. The proof is exhibited by the order and earnestness with which it is treated; for we cannot read without some share of the pleasure which always comes from contact with a vigorous and original mind."

DEAFNESS
NOISES IN THE HEAD,
Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,
CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.
Author of "Surgical and Practical Observations on the Diseases of the Ear, with his new Mode of Treatment."

NEW TESTIMONY.

"NEW-YORK, May 6.
I was entirely deaf in my left ear, contracted by a discharge. I placed myself under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S care, who, by his great skill, restored me to perfect hearing, in the short space of a few minutes, without giving me the slightest pain, and the discharge has ceased entirely. The Eustachian Tube, which was obstructed, is quite open, and I feel that the air-passage performs its functions. I am amply satisfied, and recommend every one suffering from impaired hearing to place themselves under the treatment of this eminent and successful physician.
THOMAS GRAHAM, No. 229 6th-st."

"NEW-YORK, May 7, 1863.
I have great pleasure in testify to the skill of Dr. VON EISENBERG. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. It is nearly twelve months since, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted two or three minutes in each of my ears, gave me no pain whatever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG'S unsurpassing skill.
SAMUEL G. HUNT,
No. 6 Monroe-st., Greenpoint, L. I."

"West Houston-st., NEW-YORK, Feb. 8, 1863.
I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been troubled by a most unbearable pugnaciousness in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. VON EISENBERG, but I must confess my fear that he failed in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. VON EISENBERG to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of treating the hearing are, in my opinion, correct.
JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 23, 1862.
This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and troubling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. VON EISENBERG removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with congealed blood, relieving her instantaly, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.
CARROLL J. POST, No. 36 South-st.

No. 128 MERCER-ST., NEW-YORK.
J. E. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. My ears can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful. After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasure of using my recovery a cause—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Dr., your obedient servant.
EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.
"This is to certify, that I was completely deaf from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull pain in the head. I felt my ears completely stopped up accompanied by constant roughness of the throat, the chills creeping over me with continual pain, so much so, that I thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great success of Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure, I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimony to the great success already in the Doctor's possession. Knowing the intensity and severity of my treatment, so he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation, I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most cheerfully recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg for a certainty of a speedy cure."
